In January 2012, 3.25 linear feet of duplicate or extraneous material was permanently removed as part of the reprocessing and new materials integration of the collection. An additional 2.75 linear feet of duplicate and extraneous material was permanently removed from the collection during the reprocessing in August of 2013. One blank ¼" audio reel was removed in 2026.

Administrative History

The Thesians International (previously Thesians of the United States) is a Catholic organization open to all women of faith. Founded in Pueblo, Colorado in 1961 by Diocesan Vocation Director Reverend Msgr. Elwood Voss, it originally concentrated on the Church's need for religious vocations for women. Msgr. Voss realized that few organizations for women to enrich their own lives existed within the Catholic Church. He patterned the Thesians on the Serra Club, an organization designed to foster and support vocations for men in the priesthood. The organization became known as "Thesians" after the patroness of the Pueblo, Colorado diocese, St. Thèrèse of Lisieux, and also because Thérèse developed a “simplistic” theology quite unlike the complex spirituality practiced over the centuries. Working in close cooperation with Msgr. Voss in the founding, coordinating, and expansion of the national and international units of the Theresian organization were Virginia Siegle (O’Donnell) from 1962 to 1969, Sister Patricia Mullen, SFCC, in the 1970s and 1980s. Msgr. Voss served as Founding Director from 1961 until 1980. Sister Patricia Mullen became the Executive Director from 1980-1990 and was succeeded by Sister Rose Ann Barmann, OSB, who served as Executive Director from 1990-1999. Victoria S. Schmidt became the organization’s first lay director in 1999-2021.

In the early years of the Theresians, laywomen members concentrated on the apostolate of sponsoring vocations in religious life. This was the primary focus of the Theresians until a new statement of purpose was formulated in 1969. The new statement of purpose added an additional dimension emphasizing a deeper appreciation of the vocation of both Christian women-religious and lay women. Post-Vatican II changes in religious life affected the relationship between lay women and Sisters. Sisters joined already established Theresian communities or founded new Theresian communities. In the Theresians, single, married, widowed, divorced, and professed religious women gained a common quest: to discover a new perspective of themselves as women and, ultimately, women of the Church and society. Ideologically, the organization provided opportunities for life enrichment for the Christian woman through the Five Dimensions, a term used since 1971 to describe a Theresian’s way of responding to God’s call in her life. These dimensions include spiritual development, ongoing education, affirmation and encouragement in their vocations, community, and ministry.

The Theresian National Office was located in Colorado for the first ten years of the organization’s existence. In 1971, the offices moved to Scottsdale, Arizona. The Scottsdale property was sold in 1991, and the National Office were once again established in Colorado, this time in offices provided by the Benet Hill Benedictines in Colorado Springs. The organization is generally recognized as a women’s group, however men also participate. Men are invited to participate in special events, attend Theresian conferences, and to serve on the Theresian National Board of Consultants. The headquarters for Theresians International is located in Springfield, Illinois, at Sacred Heart Convent, the motherhouse of the Dominican Sisters of Springfield. Msgr. Voss, founder of the Theresians of the United States and the Theresian World Ministry, died in Phoenix, Arizona in 1992.

The concept of Women in Support of Women accounted for the rapid expansion of the Theresian communities. In 1994 there were eighty communities with more than 1500 members in the United States. The Theresian World Ministry (TWM) includes participants in Argentina, Canada, Australia, Ghana, the Philippines, China, England, Mexico, Thailand, and Nigeria. The Church’s focus on the importance of an active lay ministry throughout the world was partly responsible for the surge of growth of this organization. Theresian members strive to grow as women of faith, service, and vision.

Scope and Content

This collection has been divided into eleven series consisting of 57 linear feet spanning the years 1925-2008. The collection is organized alphabetically, then chronologically when appropriate, within each series and subseries. The collection consists primarily of records pertaining to individual Theresian communities in the United States, Theresian World Ministry files, and information on Theresian conferences.
